DukeNet Communication Services, LLC Announces Completion of Tower Site for NTELOS

DukeNet Communication Services, LLC (“DNCS”) announces the completion of its first tower site for NTELOS located near Ashland, Kentucky (Summit Tower Site). NTELOS is a regional wireless carrier operating a CDMA network in Virginia, West Virginia, and portions of Kentucky and Ohio. NTELOS, headquartered in Waynesboro, VA, has a strategic network alliance with Sprint-Nextel.

The Summit, Kentucky tower (N38-27-16,W82-44-19) is a 199’ self-support structure. The tower is designed to accommodate three additional wireless carriers.

“NTELOS is a great company and we are excited to add them to our customer roster” said Dan Turnpaugh, Director of DNCS Tower Operations. “DNCS has expanded its tower portfolio footprint through the addition of the Summit site. We look forward to developing future tower sites to enhance NTELOS’ network.”

For leasing information please contact Max Lind, Manager of Business Development, at 513-403-4304 or mlind@duke-energy.com. Information about DNCS can be found on our website at www.dukenet-towers.com.
